

The MARKETS NOW

- Is the US stock market's trading range now a Damoclean sword, or a launch pad?
- How transformative could Narendra Modi be for India?
- What are some of the more promising stock markets today?
- Are the energy cartels beginning to lose their control over global supplies?
- Are those bearish reports on gold from several investment banks prescient or contrary indicators?

“ I just wanted to add my thanks for a most interesting and intellectually-stimulating evening seminar at the East India Club. You, Iain and Bruce all dazzled in a most inspirational manner and the impact of your joint observations was a powerful one, being delivered in a live arena like that. I have to say that there was also an impressive degree of brain power amidst the punters as well (!), which led to interesting conversational opportunities across the assembled group (worth attending for alone). So well done to you all for a very rewarding evening ”
